Minden Winter Carnival lives another year

by Andy Holloway

It looks like the Minden Winter Carnival will live for at least one more year after residents banded together to save the annual fair.

About 15 people, including Minden councillors, attended a meeting last Wednesday night in an effort to save the carnival which was dropped by the Kinsmen who ran the event for the past 20 years. Representatives from the Legion, Lions Club, Kinsmen and Minden Skating Club were at the meeting as were several residents with no club affiliation.

All present at the meeting agreed the carnival should be geared to children. To this end, the carnival will undergo some important changes to make it more attractive to children and their families and also to cut down on costs.

The carnival was initially organized as a means of raising funds for the Kinsmen Club while providing a weekend of winter activities. Last year's carnival, however, operated at $1,000 in the red. The club says it cost about $10,000 to put on last year's events while income was just $9,000.

Despite this poor financial picture, the club still has $4,700 left in its carnival budget that will be passed on to the new organizers.

"We do have a nest egg to kick us off with so it's not as if we're stuck with nothing," said Minden Reeve and new committee chair Bern Berry. "The problem is not finances, the problem is what are we going to do, what ideas do we have and where are we going to get the manpower?"

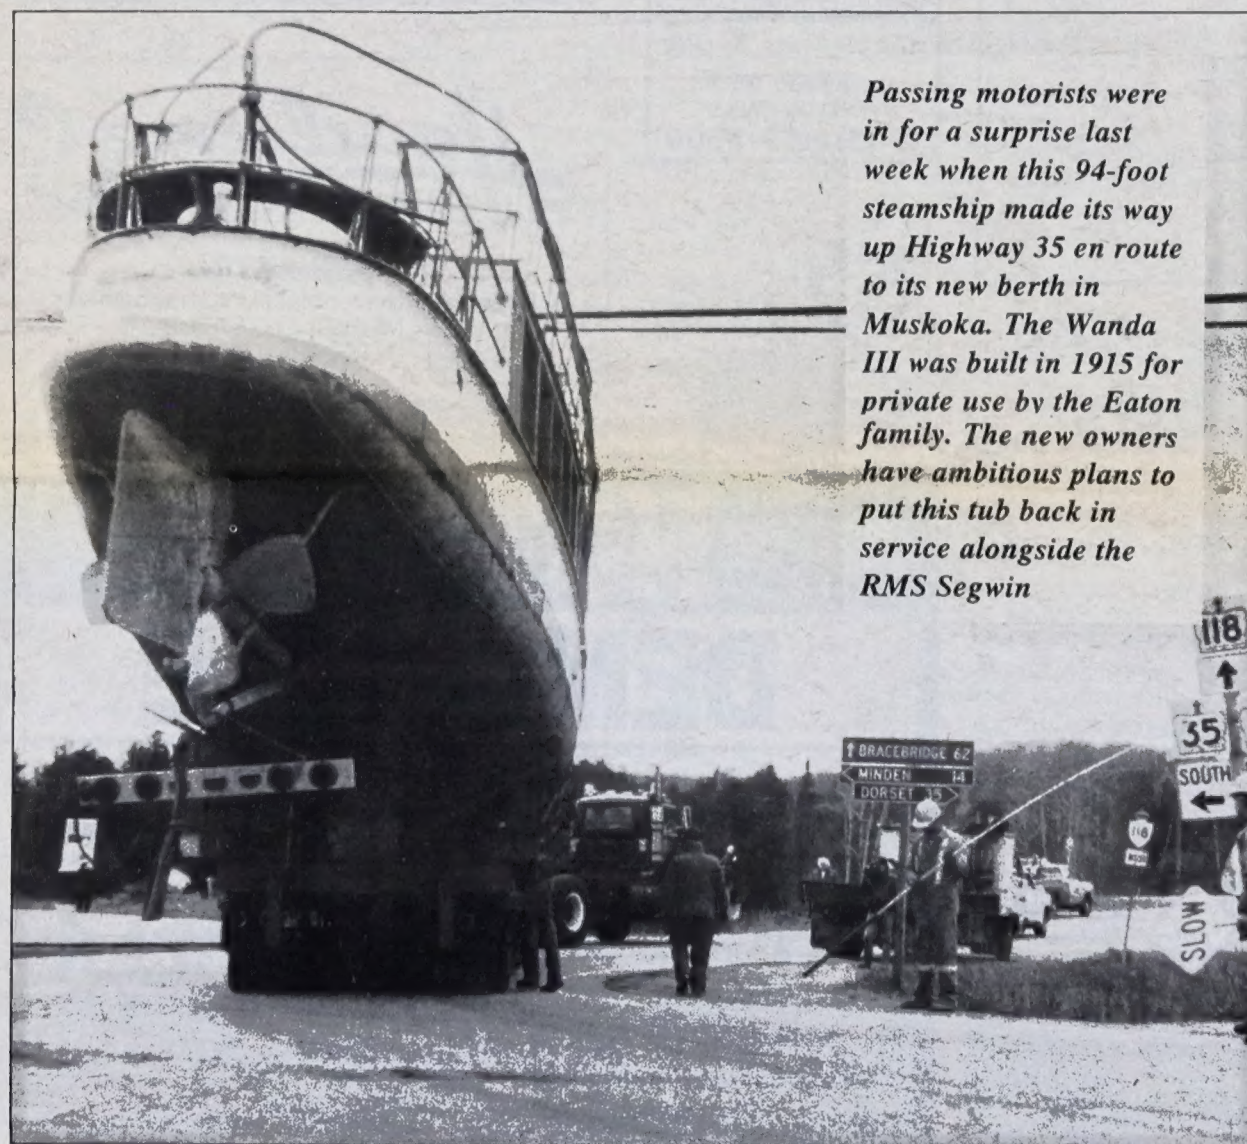

Kinsmen president Jim Carrell said the committee should be "prepared to be amazed" when expenses do start rolling in. Winn Newbury, who was one of the first organizers of the event, said in the beginning the carnival didn't even have a budget, yet things still got done and everyone had a good time. Those who remembered the carnival's heyday in the 1970s said it was because the children were involved and so were the schools.

Gone are such events as the MuchMusic video dance party which lost money last year. In its place the new organizers want a return to the types of events the carnival had in its beginning years. A Carnival Queen and King contest, torch light parade, bonfire and a figure skating exhibition are being looked at for Friday night to kick off the weekend.

On Saturday events like a baseball tournament, cross-country ski races, arm wrestling, helicopter rides, sleigh rides, card games for seniors and a dinner are being planned. And yes, there will be a dance, although Berry said the format will have to be decided later by the committee which is comprised of Lisa Connelly, Dwight Thomas, Brian Moore and Jeanne Anthon. Moore was representing the chamber of commerce and the Lions Club. He said the chamber does not have the resources to help financially, but it will help spread the word.

Sunday's featured plans include ice skating, skating races, and a pancake breakfast. During the weekend the Kinsmen will have their regular ice car races and the curling club is hosting a bonspiel.

"The problem is not finances, the problem is what are we going to do"

Passing motorists were in for a surprise last week when this 94-foot steamship made its way up Highway 35 en route to its new berth in Muskoka. The Wanda III was built in 1915 for private use by the Eaton family. The new owners have ambitious plans to put this tub back in service alongside the RMS Segwin

O'Reilly turns Haliburton red

Thirty eight years of patience finally paid off as heavy turnouts at the polls brought the Liberals back to the forefront in Victoria-Haliburton.

Almost 71 percent of the eligible voters in Haliburton County cast their ballots last Monday, and the result was a surprisingly strong win for John O'Reilly.

The Liberal candidate picked up 20,511 votes, beating out Reformer Barry Devolin by almost 5,000 votes.

Although O'Reilly will not be sworn in as this riding's Member of Parliament until later this week, he is already receiving dozens of calls from constituents in need of help from their representative.

Former MP Bill Scott's constituency office was closed down early last week.

Victoria-Haliburton has been a Conservative stronghold for the past 38 years. Scott, who filled the post for the past 27 years, announced his retirement prior to the election call. The Tories chose Lindsay lawyer Lorne Chester as their candidate this time around, but the best he could manage in this nationwide Liberal sweep was a third-place finish with 12,387 votes.

Hunting season brings worst out of people

The start of the hunting season brought out the worst in some people in Haliburton County during the past two weeks.

On October 22 three moose were illegally shot near the Haliburton Highlands Rifle Range in the Township of Lutterworth. Minden OPP report that a cow and bull moose were partially butchered and removed from the scene while a third moose, a large cow, was left to rot at the site.

Police say that at least two, and possibly four, people were involved with this poaching incident and are asking the public for information. The individuals would have had wet clothing and would have been bloodied from the butchering process. There is no evidence of an ATV being used to assist the poachers and the moose were dragged from the site by hand.

The three moose were all killed at the same time in a pond on the north side of Iron Mine Road. A cow and bull were then removed from the scene and gutted, had their legs sawn off at the knees and their heads removed. The moose were then dragged to one or two pickup trucks.

Only 25 "cow permits" were issued by the Ministry of Natural Resources in the area in which the moose were killed so the loss of two cows is significant. Moose hunting season ended October 23 while deer hunting season begins today (Monday) in the Minden area.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-8477.

In a separate incident a dispute between two hunters turned ugly and resulted in the laying of one charge by Minden OPP. On October 18 two men were hunting on crown land in Snowdon Township when an argument about who had the right to hunt there broke out. One of the men allegedly levelled his rifle to the left of the other and fired a single round past him. The incident was immediately reported to police.

Gordon Graham, 44, of Snowdon Township has been charged with possession of a dangerous weapon and using it for a purpose dangerous to the public peace.

Coby OPP warn businesses about counterfeit $50 bills

Two businesses in Coboconk were the victims of people passing counterfeit $50 American bills on October 21.

Coboconk OPP say the person passing the bills purchased a small item and then paid for them with a counterfeit $50 bill.

The person is described as being a short, skinny male with scraggly, long brown hair, facial hair and was last seen wearing jeans and a brown waist-length jacket (possibly leather).

Businesses in the area should be suspicious of people who purchase a low cost item and then pay for it with a large bill.

Stolen property

The following property was reported as stolen during the week October 18-25 to Coboconk OPP:

Shadow Lake: Mastercraft 0.5 HP jet pump

Norland: Otto hardtop tent trailer with Ontario licence plate 7382H, 60 watt red Honda generator, storage shed still in box, beige Singer sewing machine in grey case, Abu Garcia casting rod with model 6500 reel, red Mastercraft 4.5 HP self-propelled lawn mower, Makita drill and charger, Mastercraft drive socket sets, Hitachi VCR, Electrohome 20" colour television, Kodak 35 mm camera, Singer mini-sewing machine.

Anyone with information on these items should call Coboconk OPP.

Savage Messiah

Authors explain inner workings of Theriault's cult

by Jerry Grozelle

The authors of Savage Messiah, the story of cult leader and convicted murderer Roch Theriault were in Burnt River Thursday evening.

Paul Kaihla and Ross Laver were there at the invitation of the Fenelon Falls Rotary Club to talk about the life of the man who called himself Moses and built a commune in Somerville Township not far from the village.

They tried to answer some questions about how this could have happened in the Burnt River area and how Theriault could exercise such complete control over his followers that they would endure and even participate in his sadistic rituals.

But the most compelling questions remain unanswered. After all the atrocities this deranged man has committed, including murder, torture, mutilation.... why will he be eligible for unsupervised day parole in three years? Why will he be eligible for full parole in six years? Why is he living a relatively luxurious lifestyle in the Millhaven Institute, complete with a fax machine? Why is he allowed conjugal visits so he can continue to father children from his prison "apartment?"

"About 95 per cent of the time in this country," Kaihla said, "if you kill someone and you can prove you were drunk at the time, you won't get convicted of murder -- you'll be convicted of manslaughter."

Kaihla and Laver, both of whom are editors of Maclean's magazine, have brought to light the details of this cult leader's life and the women he claimed as his wives.

Jim Jones, Charles Manson and, more recently, David Koresh are a few of the recognizable names in a long list of cult leaders from the past couple of generations. Although none of the above people were Canadian, this country isn't exempt from the influence of cults.

The authors explained that cults have been in existence throughout recorded history, in practically every country in the world.

Theriault's methods of mind control are one of the common denominators that most cult leaders use. He kept his followers working to exhaustion. He kept them hungry by rationing their food. He isolated them from their families and from all but the briefest contact with non-cult members. He exercised absolute control through the harshest of punishments as well as rewards for deeds well done.

Another common thread among cults is their leaders' proclamation that they are the Messiah -- the leader of "the new Jerusalem."

Apocalyptic beliefs are also common among cults. The followers are convinced that the "Second Coming of Christ" is near and that the quickest way to heaven is by following the teachings of the cult leader. The leaders cite the "decay of modern society" as evidence that the end is near.

Kaihla and Laver explained that Theriault has roots in both the Mormon and Seventh Day Adventist religions. He travelled to Utah several times to visit his mentors.

Rick Dunsford, a past president of the Fenelon Falls Rotary Club, was instrumental in arranging for Kaihla and Laver to come to Burnt River to talk about Theriault and his followers.

"I thought it might be rather appropriate to come back to Burnt River where it all started," Dunsford said.

At one point the organizers were going to make the event free. But after he had read the book, Dunsford decided that some money could be raised for the Kawartha Haliburton Children's Aid Society. With a small admission fee, the evening raised $305 for the CAS.

"My sympathy goes out to the children," Dunsford said. "The Kawartha Haliburton Children's Aid Society did a tremendous job of spearing on this investigation. Without their initial investigations, and a lady by the name of Mrs. Brown, they still might have been in a lot of problems. So, I decided to have the funds go back to the Children's Aid Society where they will be put to good use."

More than 150 people turned out for the event.

"I think people are intrigued by what happened and a lot of people were very surprised because they knew of the cult as being the people who delivered the fruit and sold the bread on the corner and just kind of stayed out of everybody's way," Dunsford said. "Hopefully, this type of event will never happen again in this area."

Dunsford echoed the sentiments of the audience at the Burnt River-Somerville Community Centre when he said that he hoped Theriault would spend more time behind bars than he has been slated to.

One audience member, Noni Campbell, put newly elected MP John O'Reilly on the spot when she suggested that O'Reilly work towards standardized laws across Canada that would prevent people from circumventing the laws of one province by moving to another.

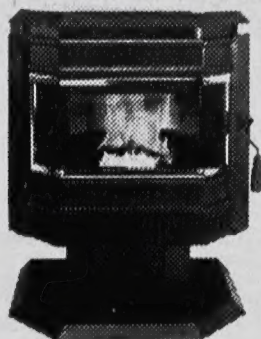

Legislation in Quebec prohibited Theriault from associating with other cult members after he was convicted of several offenses and sentenced to two years less a day in that province.

O'Reilly accepted Campbell's suggestion, saying that he would do what he could to address those con-

Card promotes local shopping

High school students will be enticed to shop locally through a new fundraising venture offered by the students council.

For a $10 fee, students can buy a card that gives them access to special discounts offered at participating stores throughout the county.

Council president Jim Dewey introduced the scheme to the school board last Tuesday, where it received solid support from trustees.

With the help of Wendy Ladurantaye and Glen Sharpley, Dewey says the students canvased local businesses to see if they would be willing to participate. He said they have enough participation to make the card an attractive item.

The concept is simple. Businesses offer a discount to students who present the card. Students council raises money by selling the cards.

Asked if anyone has been left out, Dewey said "all businesses have been approached to the best of our ability." Anyone who has been missed can still be added to the venture by contacting the school in the next few weeks.

Money raised through this project will be used for one of the following projects: repair of the tennis courts; outdoor basketball facilities; a picnic area for lunches; bleachers at the playing field, or new chairs for assemblies.

Authors reject costly interview cerns.

Obviously touched by the accounts of the events leading up to Roch Theriault's arrest, O'Reilly said: "It's too bad there isn't capital punishment in this type of case."

During the open question period at the end of the presentation, one member of the audience asked the authors of the book if any of the profits from its sale would go to Roch Theriault.

"Roch doesn't get one penny from the sale of Savage Messiah," was the emphatic answer.

It was pointed out that the authors tried to arrange an interview with Theriault for the book. Theriault wanted $25,000 for the privilege of interviewing him.

"If he'd wanted 10 cents for an interview we would have refused," one of the authors stated. "Any journalist in Canada who would pay for such an interview would be drummed out of the business."

Following the question period, the authors were available to autograph copies of their book. About 70 copies of Savage Messiah were sold during the evening.

Reform candidate Barry Devolin, left, got the numbers he expected. He hadn't, however, predicted such a strong showing from Liberal John O'Reilly. The top two candidates exchanged courtesies at O'Reilly's headquarters in Lindsay after it became clear there would be no catching the Liberals this time around. Despite the loss, Devolin is pleased with his party's successes.

This is Mike Harris

A lot of people know him as "The Taxfighter" because he's been battling taxes for eight years. As a father of two young boys, he understands the need to reform education as a successful small businessperson, he knows how red tape and taxes can kill jobs and as a champion of direct democracy, he believes in giving the public a real say in developing policy.

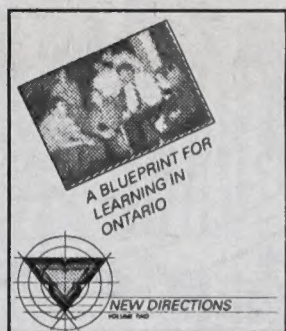

The Mike Harris program of public consultation began in November of 1991 with the first paper in the New Directions series. Since then ... through Task Forces and public hearings ... by phone, FAX and mail ... tens of thousands of Ontarians have had their concerns and ideas included in policy decisions.

Mike Harris has something to share with you...

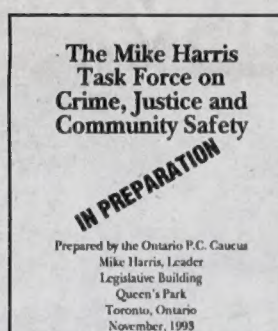

New Directions Vol. I

This paper addresses Ontario's economic problems and details PC Leader Mike Harris' proposals for developing comprehensive economic strategies and for bringing jobs back to Ontario. It was first published in the Fall of '91 and is currently being updated.

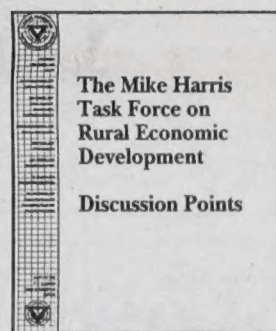

New Directions Vol. II

For those teachers, parents, students and concerned citizens who feel that Ontario's education system needs to be re-vamped, this paper is for you! To promote the key themes of excellence, opportunity and accountability in education, Volume II examines a series of policy alternatives.

New Directions Vol. III

We launched the Crime, Justice & Community Safety Task Force in January '93. By travelling Ontario to hold public hearings, and by distributing discussion materials, we have been able to prompt public response. The results will be published in Volume III.

New Directions Discussion Paper

We held the first Task Force on Rural Economic Development in August of '93. So far, we've heard from people in Essex, Sparta, Simcoe, Delhi, Woodstock, Tillsonburg, Eastwood, Haliburton, and Lindsay. We will spend a year visiting towns and looking for new opportunities. Then we'll publish the results.

New Directions Discussion Paper

Despite creating 80% of our jobs, small business in Ontario is being strangled by taxes and paper. Mike Harris said "enough" and launched The Task Force on Cutting Red Tape and Growing Small Business this fall. The results will be published in 1994.

The path to obscurity

We can bet there's a line-up at the shredders in Ottawa this week as the governing Tories clean out their offices to make room for the incoming Liberals. Mounds of incriminating memos, classified documents -- all the dope behind the deals -- is being fed into the shredders.

Nine years of heavy-handed Conservative government came to a close last Monday night when Canadians delivered a strong majority to the Liberals. Clearly disgusted with the Mulroney/Campbell record, voters pulled the plug on this once-powerful party.

The Liberal victory is impressive, but the real story in this election is the message behind the collapse of the federal Conservatives.

The Conservatives lost the election because they refused to listen. True to form, they underestimated the public's anger. They attempted to hide their dismal past by selecting a new leader. Yet, except for this cosmetic change, they offered us nothing.

No, the Liberals did not win this election, the Tories lost it. We desperately wanted a change and they would not oblige. Instead of offering a new approach to government, they just asked us to trust that they would come up with some good ideas once they were back in power.

Trusting the Tories while their record is still fresh in our minds was too much of a stretch. Instead, we put our trust in the Liberals, who haven't offended us to any large degree in nine years.

History, though, does have a habit of repeating itself. Unless this Liberal government produces a substantial change to the top-down style of government we're so sick of, the party may well follow the Tory path to obscurity four years from now.

Have your say.

Chester has only himself to blame

Editor:

Incredibly, Lorne Chester is blaming the national Conservative campaign for his failure to recapture the federal seat for the PC party in Victoria-Haliburton, a seat held without rival for 27 years by Conservative Bill Scott. If I were a member of the Tory elite, I would be outraged. At the beginning of the campaign, Lorne consistently and unashamedly attached himself to Kim Campbell's rising star, rather than focus on selling his own skills and the platform of his party. As Kim fell out of favour in the national press, Lorne mentioned her name less and less. Now that all is lost, it's Kim's fault. What kind of party loyalty is this? What monumental hypocrisy.

The reality is that the emergence of the Reform Party is what really lost the election for the Tories. Barry Devolin and the Reform Party mounted an extremely credible campaign. Barry performed well in most of the all-candidates meetings. Although I strongly object to some of the policies of his party, Barry expressed himself well and generally left the audience feeling he would be a good representative for this riding. I know, I attended every single all-candidates meetings. You always knew where Barry stood. This was not necessarily true of the other "front runners" with the exception of Dennis Drainville. Simply put, Barry Devolin outperformed the other right wing candidates and was successful in splitting the vote.

Very early in the campaign, voters were looking more closely at the local candidates rather than the national leaders to help them determine how they would vote. Strangely, a large number of voters went into the polls still somewhat undecided. I believe the Liberals took the riding because the electorate was afraid of what might happen to this country in a minority government situation. Especially if the BLOC became a force to be reckoned with. Ultimately, the Reform Party was still too new and regional for the majority of voters to make that leap of faith.

The electorate has spoken. They played it safe. They want stability. They want jobs. They want hope. Let's get on with it and work together to heal this country.

Deer managed without human aid for centuries

Editor:

My wife and I moved to the Kawarthas from Toronto five years ago and we consider ourselves guests in the area. The permanent residents are the wild creatures that inhabit the area and with which we share our living space. To us there is no greater thrill than to hear the howl of a wolf or the hoot of an owl on a still autumn night. We try to disturb our environment as little as possible and believe that as nearly as possible one should "Take nothing but pictures and leave nothing but footprints." When on our daily walks, we bring back at least two pieces of garbage discarded at the roadside by motorists.

We are coming to dislike the fall as it is the time for killing wildlife. It is not so much the killing that is distasteful, but the manner in which it is "sportingly" carried out. Statistics show that 20 per cent of deer that are shot, for example, are not killed but wounded and die a slow and agonizing death.

Whenever discussing deer killing with hunters I am always told how "necessary" it is to cull the population in order to prevent mass starvation during winter due to overpopulation.

I wonder how the deer population managed for the many thousands of years before the Europeans arrived here with their rifles.

I think the following piece by a former bird hunter sums up how I feel about hunting:

A Hunter's Poem

A hunter shot at a flock of geese that flew within his reach.
Two were stopped in their rapid flight and fell on the sandy beach.
The male bird lay at the water's edge and just before he died,
He faintly called to his wounded mate and she dragged herself to his side.
She bent her head and crooned to him, in a way distressed and wild, Caressing her one and only mate as a mother would a child.
Then covering him with her broken wing and gasping with failing breath,
She laid her head against his breast, a feeble honk...then death.
This story is true, though crudely told. I was the man in this case.
I stood knee-deep in snow and cold, and the hot tears burned my face.
I buried the birds in the sand where they lay, wrapped in my hunting coat.
And I threw my gun and belt in the bay, when I crossed in the open boat.
Hunters will call me a right poor sport and scoff at the thing I did.
But that day something broke in my heart, and shoot again?
God forbid.

Toronto the Good not really so good

This is a story about two human settlements. One of them is called Astakos. It's in Greece.

The other one is known as Hogtown, Zurich-On-The-Humber, the Queen's City, Taranna The Good — or just Toronto.

I don't know a whole lot about the settlement called Astakos. It's not listed in my World Atlas, so I figure it's safe to assume that it's smaller than Toronto.

In some ways, at any rate.

As for the other settlement, I know a fair bit about that one. I was born there, for one thing. And in the half a century since I have called it home from time to time. Worked there. Studied there. Got married and divorced and hired and fired and drunk and happy and sad there.

I don't live in Toronto any more and I never will again. But I still hop an eastbound Gray Coach bus three times a week. A bus that crawls in along Toronto's Lakeshore underbelly to deposit me in the bowels of the burg, there to grub for my paycheque.

So I have my own hard-earned opinions about Toronto — but then, breathes there a Canuck from the Queen Charlottes to Signal Hill who doesn't? We all know what we think about Ontario's capital. And generally speaking, the farther away you live, the less edifying the sentiments.

It's an easy city to dislike. Toronto doesn't have the easy beauty of Vancouver or the joie de

Black'n White

by Arthur Black

vivre of Montreal. It lacks the architectural grace of Ottawa, the mountainscape backdrop of Calgary, the down home warmth of a St. John's, a Winnipeg or a Windsor. To the outsider, Toronto feels fast and brittle and cold and more than a touch arrogant.

Toronto feels like it is about money.

Or perhaps even less. After all, Las Vegas is about money too, but at least people enjoy themselves there. Torontonians seldom look like they're having a good time. Oh, they fill the seats in the Skydome and Maple Leaf Gardens, but visiting sportsmen teams speak with disbelief about the eerie quietness of Toronto fans.

Torontonians don't take easily to new cultural concepts either. Remember the Archer? It's a sculpture created by the late great Henry Moore. A vast, shining nugget of burnished bronze that glows and catches the sun in Nathan Phillips Square. Moore wanted so badly to see it standing in front of Toronto's New City Hall that he slashed the price to a bargain basement $100,000.

Torontonians freaked out.

What is it, they squawked. Looks like a chicken with its head cut off. Can't tell the front from the back. One city councillor grumbled "How much art and culture... can we have shoved down our throats?"

Well, that was more than a quarter of a century ago, and Toronto has more or less grown grudgingly accustomed to that stunning bronze brooch pinned to its bosom. It isn't loved. It just isn't talked about anymore.

Instead they're talking about The Rock.

The Rock is a massive slab of Muskoka granite that's being installed in a downtown park. Once again Torontonians are bleating about the extravagance of featuring something as unproductive as Precambrian stone when the space could be used to make money — another parking lot, say... or maybe a MacDonald's.

And if it must be a damned park, then, as city councillor Tom Jacobek imaginatively suggested "What's wrong with simply laying some sod and planting a few bushes?"

Ah, yes. That's the Toronto we've all come to know and loathe.

Which brings us full circle, to the Greek settlement of Astakos, Greece, that I mentioned way back at the beginning.

Do you know what they do in Astakos?

Every time there's a rainbow in the sky, the city fathers serve free glasses of wine to everybody in the town square.

I don't know how Astakos wracks up against Toronto in other respects — garbage pickup, sewers and sidewalks, public transportation...

But I know which town I'd rather be having dinner in tonight.

Rantin' n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

Hey, men can dress themselves

There are certain things that men are not supposed to be able to do very well.

We can't cook, we can't sew, we don't put the toilet seat down. These are but a few of the inabilities of men.

On the other hand, the best chefs are men, the top fashion designers are men, and the toilet seat, well, we're inventing a new one that will automatically return to a sitting position.

It is neither the intake or the end result of food that has ruffled my feathers. No, it's the fact men are not supposed to be able to dress themselves properly in the morning, or at night for that matter.

The image of a buffoon wearing a pink striped shirt with plaid pants on the golf course is a popular image associated with this phenomenon.

When shopping for clothes, which guys admittedly never do by themselves, women always say, "Well, this would look nice" and "Oooh, this cardigan fits you just perfect."

In the days of cavemen, women cavemen would always make men cavemen change their hides because they didn't go with the cave hieroglyphics.

There is nothing wrong with these scenarios, but women tend to dress their spouses, sons and friends in clothes that would probably suit their fathers forty years ago.

Guys who take this advice are generally snickered at from behind the office coffee urn or water cooler when they arrive at work. "Hey, who dressed you? Your mother. HAHAAH."

In fact, it's also a popular insulting refrain. "Yeah, well, your mother dresses you funny."

Still, to preserve the peace we wear these ridiculous clothes and keep our mouths closed. To criticize a woman's taste in clothes, whether it be yours or hers, is to invite disaster and a cold bed.

On the radio the other day, the reason behind these hideous apparel apparitions was finally revealed. A researcher with the American Intimate Clothing Council said the average woman's bust size has increased from 34B to 36C due to better nutrition and the popularity of implants.

So what, you ask? Is this just cheap sex trivia. There is a point, however. The researcher went on to reveal that 70 per cent of all women are wearing the wrong bra size.

If women can't wear proper-sized intimates, what hope do they have of dressing an entire person in coordinating cuts and styles?

None, I would say which is why guys look like idiots with clothes and without.

But, I'll let you in on a little secret.

Men go out of their way to dress funny just to make women think they can do a better job and, for the sake of the family reputation, must do the job.

We sit around smoky bars and coffee joints thinking up ways to mix and match that will drive women crazy. Whenever the women move away from the table, furtive conversation start up.

"Get this Bill, when I play 18 holes tomorrow I'm going to wear plaid pants, a pink and yellow polka dot sweater, a trucking company hat, and I'm going to constantly hitch up my pants to reveal mismatched socks."

"Good one, Lanny. But you should wear polyester reversible slacks just in case your wife tells you to change. That way she'll just get frustrated and she'll give up."

The joke's on us though. Women don't give up. And we still look stupid.

A solution to black liquor woes

Editor:

This letter is directed to Minden Council and the Soyers Lake Association. Why are you bantering the black liquor issue back and forth? Instead of looking for some alternative chemical SLOP to put on the road, why don't you change the composition of the road surface to something that does not erode, cause dust or pollute the environment?

Possibly, a limestone-based surface might be the answer to this problem. Such forward thinking could save the taxpayers thousands in the long run in road maintenance fees. This type of program could be used to gradually update all the dirt roads in the county. Some of the townships south of here have used limestone products on the shoulders to stop washouts, thereby cutting down repairs.

I am sure Mr. Bern Berry and the other council members must have some intelligent reason for the township to continue to use gravel on sideroads, a product that blows away, washes away, needs constant filling and grading, and requires chemical by-product treatment. I ask, does council have some cost figures for other road surface products, other than paving, that do not require heavy maintenance?

Go Redmen

The junior HHSS Redmen football team tries to win the Kawartha championship in a game this Thursday at the high school.

Redmen take third at Kawartha finals

by Andy Holloway

Close, but in the end the Haliburton Highlands Redmen senior soccer team had to settle for third place in the Kawartha Finals.

Last Thursday the team travelled to Lindsay for the four team finals to face the best from Peterborough and the southern section. The Redmen won one and lost one and ended up with a very respectable third place finish.

In their first game, the Redmen faced St. Peter's from Peterborough and lost 2-0. Coach Walter Tose said the game was close and that the Redmen had their moments, particularly in the opening 20 minutes of play.

St. Peter's scored in the first half and then late in the second half to send the Redmen to the consolation finals. There, they met Port Hope who were blown away by Adam Scott 4-0 in their opening match.

Haliburton and Port Hope had met the previous week in an exhibition game that Port Hope won. This time, however, the Redmen prevailed winning 4-3.

"The guys were a lot looser and more relaxed," said Tose. "I wish they had been as relaxed in the first game and they would have done better."

The Redmen opened up a 3-0 lead in the first half. Lutz Haedicke scored the first two converting nice crossing passes. Darren Parsons scored on a beautiful rush from mid-field through the entire team. Nico Haedicke finished off the scoring after missing two chances on a penalty kick. Haedicke took the hard way, but scored on a nice pass from Bill Bradley.

Tose sent in his second stringers to give everybody a chance to play and while Port Hope closed the gap they never tied it up. One of the problems facing the Redmen is the lack of games they played in the Kawartha West which they won. The Redmen played just seven games before entering the Kawarthas while St. Peter's had played their 15 and Port Hope had played 13. The possibility of playing an inter-locking schedule with the Peterborough teams is being looked at for next year.

The Times wins first

The Times scored the last goal in a see-saw battle to edge Westside Jug City 6-5 in Minden men's league hockey action last Monday.

The lead changed hands five times during the game, but Jim Pettes' second goal of the night on a feed from Derek Barnett and Paul Walker proved to be the ultimate winner.

Westside jumped out to a 1-0 lead on a score by Gary Nelson who was assisted by Eldon Bull and Steve Crowe. Bull collected five points during the game including two goals. The Times replied with two goals of their own, the first by Andy Campbell and the second by Lawrence Lougheed. Before the end of the period was up, however, Westside tied the game on a goal by Bull.

In the second, Bull scored again followed by Paul Mayo to give Westside a 4-2 lead. The Times came storming back with three goals - Pettes, Lougheed and Doug Schell - and reclaimed the lead. Nelson tied it up for Westside setting the stage for Pettes' winning goal.

The Times is now 1-1 on the season while Westside is winless in two.

Hartwick, led by Scott Hamilton's six points, continued their dominating play with a 9-4 win over Home Hardware.

Hamilton scored one goal and set up Scott Nesbitt five times while Hartwick cruised to its second win. Hartwick took an early 3-0 lead on goals by John Ballantyne and two from Nesbitt before Home Hardware hit the scoreboard with a tally by Boomer Stamp.

In the second, Hartwick added six more goals including a hat trick by Nesbitt, two by

Legion adds to glass fund

The Minden Legion Branch 636 is donating another $1,000 to the Minden Arena Plexiglass Fund bringing the total so far to $12,768.

The Plexiglass at the arena which now surrounds the entire ice surface cost approximately $18,000 so donations are still being sought by the township.

The Legion had already donated money to the cause. Last December the Legion started the fund off with a $2,000 donation. Other groups who have donated money include Minden Minor Hockey, Coboconk Islanders, Snowdon Township, and the Minden Lions who have also donated twice for a total of $6,000.

Donations will be accepted by mail to: Plexiglass Fund, Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Box 359, Minden, K0M 2K0.

Board reviews hockey program

The Haliburton school board will be taking a new look at high school hockey now that players are refusing to abide by the board's unwritten rules.

The school board agreed several years ago to support a high school hockey team on the condition that it does not drain players from the existing leagues. The verbal agreement stipulated that minor hockey was to be the priority. In order to play on the high school team, players also had to play in the town leagues.

This year, however, some of the players are refusing to play in the town leagues and some trustees say this is taking its toll.

The issue was raised by Haliburton trustee Nancy Stinson at last Tuesday's board meeting. She said the commitment to minor hockey seems to be slipping and she has received several calls from parents who are concerned that minor hockey is falling apart.

Trustee Len Salvatori agreed there is a problem this year. The Haliburton school is the only school that insists its hockey players also play on town league teams. He said the agreement has worked well up until this year, but it is not working now.

Since the agreement is not a formal board policy, he said the problem will be difficult to resolve. "I don't know what we can do about it except cancel hockey."

Since some trustees are unfamiliar with the situation, Education Director Brad Saunders volunteered to prepare a full report for the board's consideration.

School team is spoiling town leagues, trustees say

Howe's hat trick sinks Stampers

Chad Connelly and a solo by Scott Hamilton. Other point getters for Hartwick included Kim Colliss with two assists and Ron May with one assist.

Home Hardware received second period goals from Chris Mills with two, and Stamp with his second. Dave Dollo added two assists and Tom Miscio added one. The Home side is 1-1 while Hartwick is unbeaten.

In the final game of the night, KDD outplayed Sid Stamp in both periods for a 5-2 win.

Jeff Howe scored a hat trick including two in the first period sandwiched around a goal by Steve Stewart to give KDD a 3-0 lead. Charlie Teljur scored one back for the Stampers and the first period ended 3-1.

The Stampers made it close early in the second on a goal by Glenn Hall with assists going to Craig Philip and Craig Crowe. But that would be as close as it would get as KDD received goals by Howe and Jason Stamp to put the Stampers away.

Howe also had two assists giving him five points for the game. Doug Aldworth had two assists for KDD as did Les Tomso, while Jeff Campbell and Stamp added single assists. KDD is now 2-0 on the year.

For Sid Stamp, who lost their second straight, Gord Wood assisted on the opening goal.

Large Minden group prepares for skating Sectionals in Trenton

The Minden Skating Club is sending its largest group of skaters to the Sectionals in the history of the club.

The Sectionals is the first round of competition for those skaters hoping to compete in the Canadians. It is divided into different categories with the top four in each of Novice, Junior and Senior divisions advancing to the Divisionals. The top four at Divisionals advance to Canadians. Next year, it is planned to have the Pre-Novice division advance to Divisionals as well.

The Minden Skating Club is a member of the Eastern Ontario section. The Eastern Section is one of the few sections that offer a Juvenile event as well.

Regardless of their level, all the Minden skaters have been putting in hours of practice in hopes of skating their best for the judges. Part of their practice is performing their solos for others and the club invites anyone interested in seeing skaters perform to come to the Arena this Friday or November 12 after 8 p.m. This helps to simulate the real event where there are many spectators.

The skaters in each event are: Novice Ladies - Cori Barkwell, Janene Garbutt, and Andrea Pawluch; Pre-Novice Ladies - Marita Schrader and Louise Howell; Juvenile Men - Tristan Pawluch; Juvenile Pairs - Tristan Pawluch and Katrina Matysek; Juvenile Dance - Tristan Pawluch and Julie Vanderlip. The skaters are coached by club professionals David Hollows and Jane Symons.

Sectionals start November 18 in Belleville and Trenton and end on the 21st.

Bantam A Monarchs start year with three wins

The Minden Monarchs Bantam A squad started off their minor hockey season with three straight wins.

On October 16, the Monarchs started their season with a 5-0 blanking of Millbrook. Goalie Justin Rowden was one of the stars of the game stopping shot after shot.

Just 47 seconds into the game Jeff Wray scored on a pass from Dennis Woods to give Minden a lead they would never relinquish. Less than a minute later Tom Bagshaw scored on a nice pass from Donald Todd. Dave Raback scored the third goal with an assist from Bagshaw.

In the third period Marty Dettman netted his first of the year with Woods and Wray picking up assists on the play. The final goal was scored by Bagshaw with an assist to Dave Raback.

The win was a great start on a new year even though quite a few penalties were called on both sides. The new rules are causing some problems for players.

Five days later Minden paid a return visit to Millbrook and won again, this time 5-3.

There were more hard hits and the pace seemed faster than in the first game of the year.

Millbrook started the scoring just 41 seconds into the first period. Minden later tied it up on a goal by Jeff Wray, assisted by Curtis Fielding. Wray scored again soon after with Donald Todd picking up the assist. Millbrook pulled ahead with two quick goals just before the end of the period and took a 3-2 lead.

Midway through the second, Tom Bagshaw tied it up again on a feed from Dennis Woods. Ben Ripley fired in an unassisted marker to give Minden their second lead of the game and Chris Eskelin wrapped up the scoring with another unassisted goal.

Jim Todd deserves credit for taking the boys and some parents down on the bus. It proved to be a better way of travelling than driving in separate cars.

On October 23, Sunderland came to town and were blasted 7-1. Chris Eskelin was first on the scoreboard putting one in on a hard slapshot. Jeff Wray assisted by Donald Todd made the score 2-0 and the first period ended that way.

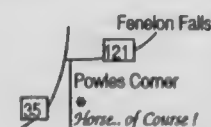

Early in the second, Tom Bagshaw fired one home unassisted. Curtis Fielding took feeds from Dave Raback and Todd to make it 4-0 and then Raback scored on an unassisted tally.

Two more goals were scored for Minden, the first by Darren Mills assisted by Sheamus Donnery and the second by Wray with assists to Dennis Woods and Marty Dettman.

The Bantams play this Thursday at home against Bobcaygeon and this Saturday against Omemece.

Short cut through complex may be cut off

The following items were addressed at the October 26 meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education

Short Cut?

The heavy metal gates in front of Haliburton's J.D. Hodgson Elementary School will stay open for at least another month.

The board's management committee recommended the gates be closed to stop people from using the laneway as a shortcut. The recommendation, however, was tabled until the school's principal can address the issue at the next board meeting.

Although the management committee believes there is a problem with cars travelling at night along the bumpy, narrow laneway between the elementary school and the high school, Education Director Brad Saunders asked trustees to give principal McKay Brydon a chance to state his case for leaving the gates open.

Saunders said the gates pose a barrier for teachers who come to the school on weekends and after hours to get caught up on their work.

Noting a comment in the Haliburton Echo that the school is a forboding and unwelcoming building,

Briefly

School Board Notes

Saunders said leaving the gates open might help relieve this impression.

Key-less?

Gates or no gates, teachers may have some trouble getting into the schools if the board takes away their keys.

The board is reviewing its policy for key distribution in an attempt to improve security at the schools. Currently, all teachers have keys to their schools and their classrooms. The board's property committee, however, has expressed concerns about the potential for problems with so many keys in circulation.

Upbeat

Serving on the school board isn't always an upbeat experience, so trustees should take advantage of the few special events to lift their spirits, says chairman Wally Bunn.

Bunn, who was commenting on last week's high school awards night, said such events are "a real difference from the hum drum routine of being a trustee."

To see the students recognized for their achievements and to meet people in a non-confrontational setting makes him think "hey, maybe we're doing something right."

Seniors should get flu shot

300 people a year die from flu-related illness in Ontario alone

For many people, getting the flu is a minor problem like the common cold.

But for others, especially those 65 and more, it can lead to a serious, even fatal illness.

About 300 people die each year in Ontario from influenza-related illnesses. The majority — 85 per cent — are over 65. In addition, the flu puts 25,000 people in hospital every year and costs us millions of dollars.

Prevention is the best medicine, and you can be vaccinated against the three main strains of flu germs expected to be around this winter. If you're in a "high-risk" group your flu shot is free.

High-risk groups include people over 65 and those who have serious heart, lung or kidney diseases, diabetes or cancer, are infected with HIV or have certain other serious conditions.

Also considered at high risk are all residents of Ontario's nursing homes, homes for the aged and chronic care facilities. This year, the flu vaccine is also free to staff of nursing homes, homes for the aged and chronic care facilities who care for patients.

"While the majority of seniors in institutions are vaccinated, the same is not true for seniors living at home," says Dr. Monika Naus, a senior medical consultant with the Ministry of Health.

"It's very important that seniors take preventative measures to reduce the risk of becoming sick, especially in the colder months ahead," says Jane Leitch, president of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario.

"I urge every senior to ask his or her doctor about having a flu shot. For many, it can make the difference between a winter of illness and a healthy season."

The best time to get your flu shot is from September to November. After that, the flu season is in full swing. It begins some time in November (the actual time varies from year to year) and lasts about six months.

"Because the flu vaccine does not contain live germs, it can't give you the flu," says Dr. Naus. "The most common side effect of the vaccine is soreness at the site of the injection. This usually lasts only one or two days. And surprisingly, these symptoms appear less often in older people."

The flu vaccine poses no risk to pregnant women or the fetus. However, anyone who has a severe allergy to eggs should not get a flu shot since the vaccine contains a trace of egg protein.

A flu shot is needed every year because different types of flu viruses appear each year. The vaccine is changed each year to protect against the strains expected to be circulating.

If you are in a high-risk group for flu or work in a long-term care facility, call your doctor or local public health department and ask about the free flu shot.

Waste management team plan in full swing

After a slow start in May, the Waste Management Systems Plan study is in full swing with Task 1 completed and Task 2 well underway.

Task 2 deals with six objectives relating to the selection of reasonable activities and (composting, waste reduction, recycling) criteria for the county.

The objective of the plan is to benefit the county by diverting waste from landfill sites, thereby extending their lives. This will keep waste management costs down, and in some cases result in reductions.

On October 20 a "kitchen table" meeting was held with the public. A long list of potential activities was presented and participants were asked to identify the priorities.

The top scoring items were reduction, source separation, backyard composting, yard waste composting at the landfill sites, balling, user fees, tipping fees and direct hauling with public education.

These and other activities will be investigated by the county's Waste Management Steering Committee in order to achieve the best waste management system.

The county is also introducing a tire pick-up service in all municipalities. By organizing a co-operative pick up service for several municipalities, costs can be reduced. This should mean reduced fees for the disposal of tires.

The Ministry of Environment will be introducing a new regulation regarding CFCs in discarded refrigeration units. Before an appliance can be taken away for scrap metal, a certified technician has to remove the CFCs and tag the appliance. Done on an individual basis, this could cost up to $80. The county is arranging for a technician to visit landfill sites on a regular basis and tag a bunch at one time. This should reduce costs to about $30 per appliance.

In 1992, it cost the 10 municipalities in the county about $860,000 to handle the waste generated here. At the moment, a large percentage of waste is going straight into the landfill sites. By the year 2000, the province wants this cut in half.

O'Reilly ends 38-year drought

NOT AGAIN! Liberal Candidate John O'Reilly was shaken by the first set of results called in to his office. The good news came later and the night belonged to the Liberals for the first time in almost 40 years.

by Andy Holloway

LINDSAY - The rejoicing began with a shudder.

Twenty minutes after 8 p.m., when the advance poll results went up at Liberal headquarters, a flash of uncertainty crossed "The Kid's" face.

These very early results showed the unexpected. They showed John O'Reilly falling behind Reformer Barry Devolin and Conservative Lorne Chester, and those in the office started to show the same glum look federal Liberals have had here since 1945 when the Liberals last represented this riding. Since then the Tories have held the power, the last 27 years through Bill Scott.

Would people in Victoria-Haliburton keep the Liberals out of office again? Even during a Liberal sweep of the east and Ontario?

It didn't seem possible.

It wasn't possible.

Thirty minutes after those disturbing results were posted, a very different picture began to emerge. When the Lindsay results arrived everything was okay with "The Kid" and the rest of the Liberal election team. O'Reilly himself was beaming because it was certain he would be the next MP to represent Victoria-Haliburton. "The Kid", otherwise known as O'Reilly's media man Michael Cayley, breathed a sigh of relief, held tightly to a Canadian draft beer and smiled.

The smiles turned to all-out laughing when the Haliburton County results finally came pouring in from Elections Canada. O'Reilly, in a stunning reversal, won every poll in the county except for the one in Oxtongue Lake, which voted for Devolin, the expected hometown favourite. Poll after poll was marked in Liberal red for another victory.

O'Reilly said he was not surprised by the Haliburton results. "When I was up there greeting people outside the post office a lot of people came up to me and said they knew Barry and were not going to vote for him so we knew we'd get more support."

He added that the vibes he felt from people in both Haliburton Village and Minden were excellent both times he was here. Moments after the national votes were broadcast on one of three televisions set in the front office, O'Reilly said he was not surprised at the swing left.

"I'm not surprised at the national vote, but this riding is the only one that matters."

While O'Reilly may not have been surprised, others were less sure. A Liberal poll taker said his results showed it would be close. "We predicted the top four finishers, but not necessarily in the order that they're in. We figured it would be pretty close and it is."

This riding last had a Liberal member between 1935-1945. It took nearly 40 years to elect another federal Liberal.

"I promise to be available, I promise to work hard for the riding," said O'Reilly.

"But that starts tomorrow. Let's let the party begin tonight."

And, party, the Liberals did - 38 years worth.

Red sweep makes Tories blue

Brave Tories applaud their candidate despite his third-place finish.

by Russ Duhaime

Lorne Chester said it best: "This is not a good day to be a Conservative."

For the first time in 38 years, the folks at the PC headquarters in Lindsay were not celebrating.

Instead of waiting for the other candidates to make the traditional walk to the cheering Tory camp, it would be Chester out trudging along Lindsay's Kent Street to shake hands with the victor.

The atmosphere at the Conservative headquarters went through a series of transformations as the results filtered in. -- cheerful, shocked, glum and finally, angry.

"People get the sort of government they deserve," an agitated Tory repeated to whoever would listen.

Except for a brief appearance, the Tories were without their candidate for the night. Chester did not make an appearance until late in the evening, well after the near demise of his party was known.

The candidate put on his best face, spoke briefly about rebuilding, compared the loss to tipping his canoe, and made the walk over to John O'Reilly's office.

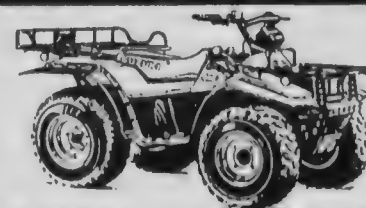

On the roads:

Jack Watson, Earl Bird, Bradley Bryant and Doug Carpenter have been building roads in Haliburton County for the past 20 years. These long-time county roads workers were praised for their work last week when Larry Ken, General Superintendent of the roads department presented them with service pins.

Rabies war is fought from the air

The Ministry of Natural Resources is extending its successful experimental program to control the arctic fox strain of rabies to Durham Region, parts of York Region and parts of Victoria, Simcoe and Haliburton counties beginning October 12.

Approximately 115,000 baits to vaccinate foxes will be air-dropped over a 5,000-square kilometre area to create a barrier of vaccinated foxes extending from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario in order to prevent the movement of rabies between the eastern and western parts of southern Ontario.

Last year, the experimental program was extended to an area in Northern Ontario to combat an intense rabies outbreak, the first in over 20 years in this area.

Southern Ontario usually has more incidents of animal rabies than any other province or state in North America.

Since 1987, the ministry has also been conducting a live trap-vaccinate-release program to immunize skunks in the Scarborough area. This program has resulted in a marked decrease in the incidence of arctic fox rabies in skunks. Where previously rabies was prevalent in Scarborough, there has not been a single case reported in the area since May 1989.

The drop between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario is the next step in a plan to eliminate fox-borne rabies from southern Ontario.

Aircraft to drop the baits will be based at the Oro-Barrie-Orillia airport.

The baiting is expected to take about three to four days.

The baits are yellowish cubes of fat and wax with a plastic container of liquid vaccine in the centre. They will be dropped from yellow and black twin-engined aircraft, flying at 600 feet, on farmlands and bushland, but not near houses, towns, recreation facilities or into water.

The ministry is asking members of the public not to touch the baits. Parents are advised to seek medical attention if children eat the bait. The baits have been tested and found safe for dogs, cats, and livestock, but will not vaccinate these species. Pet owners are encouraged to ensure that their pets are vaccinated.

Shopkeepers learn from one another

On October 19 the Chamber of Commerce held a Business to Business reception at Hart Lodge. The purpose of the reception was to bring together business owners to meet each other, talk about the summer's business and make plans for the future.

Mike Kitcheman, Training Consultant at Sir Sandford Fleming College was the guest speaker. He discussed the funding that is available to hire employees through Jobs Ontario and the Futures Program.

The chamber was also seeking input and suggestions from members and non-members as to what they would like to see accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce, and of course, the Chamber was looking for interested individuals for various committees under its auspices.

A fundraising raffle was held for 10 pairs of Miss Saigon theater tickets and a business card door prize of a bottle of wine donated by Highland Brewing was also drawn.

The Board of Directors was not sure how this reception would be received and whether the idea would proceed beyond the first evening. Due to the determined efforts of Mary Jane Williams, one of the Directors, the reception turned out to be a tremendous success with about 50 businesses in attendance. Everyone had a great time and several business owners stepped forward to volunteer their time and establishments for Business to Business receptions in the future. The next reception is tentatively set for February 15, 1994 with Wigamog Inn and County Commercial Printers as the sponsors.

Grandfathers 4 become six for senior's Happy Hour on Friday

There was no entertainment Saturday. Some residents had visitors. My sister's family came and took me out for supper. It's a happy change for me.

Reverend John Burgess conducted the Sunday evening chapel with Ruth Worthington playing the organ. Thank you John and Ruth, we appreciate this very much.

Monday we had fitness in the morning and resident's council in the afternoon. There was a good number present and we had a successful meeting with them. I spent the day with Terry. Tuesday chapel was taken by Rev. Walford Davis. The service was enjoyed by the residents, who thank him very much.

Our baking program continued by making two cakes for Hallowe'en.

Faithful Corinne supervised cards for us in the evening. Thank you Corinne. Wednesday afternoon Doris took some of us for a bus ride along Hwy 35 to Hall's Lake, and then into Little Hawk Lake. The river was very high so the rapids were beautiful. We saw a log chute below the dam. We returned to Kawartha Dairy for our regular ice cream. Everyone enjoyed the trip and thank Doris for driving us and Jean Robson and Helen Donaldson who helped us on the bus.

Thursday the ladies from the Wilberforce Legion came to bring us happiness for our tea party. This was their first time to the tea party. They served a delicious tea and after danced several line dances for our entertainment. The ladies were Shirley Riley, Myrna Hayward, Joan Clarke, Mary Whitney, Eileen Agnew, Dorothy Babbington and Vicci Agnew. We heartily thank these ladies.

Friday at Happy Hour we were entertained by the Grandfathers' 4, but there were six. Bill Payne, Don Burch, George Smith, Eldon Deacon, Richard Lancaster, and Charlie Hadley. The residents and their friends had a good time and they sincerely thank them. They also thank those who volunteered their help for the afternoon - Don Holden, Bonnie Fullan, Dottie Muirhead and Mary Guillemin.

Everyone at Hyland Crest wish to thank those who donated plants this fall and will appreciate any you could spare in the coming spring. A special thank you.

NOTICE

Retail Business Holidays Act Statutory Holiday Opening Exemption

The Provincial Retail Business Holidays Act requires owners to apply to their local Municipality for an exemption, to enable them to open on a statutory holiday legally.

The Minden B.I.A. has applied for an exemption for all businesses located in the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden on the basis that we are a centre for tourism throughout the year.

The Statutory Holidays being applied for by the B.I.A. are Victoria Day, Canada Day, Labour Day, Thanksgiving Day, Boxing Day and Good Friday.

The Retail Business Holidays Act states that any business occupying space over 2400 square feet or employing more than three employees, must apply for an exemption individually, and cannot come under the umbrella of an organization, such as a local B.I.A.

Applications and details on this matter are available at the Municipal Office. The deadline for applying is November 19, 1993.

Elaine McCrea, A.M.C.T. (A),
Municipal Law Enforcement Officer.

Redefining progress

Reflections

by David Suzuki

My mother-in-law had just returned from a tour of the U.S. and asked me, "Did you know that George Washington had slaves?"

How could he have done that? But Washington's behavior only seems contradictory from our 20th-century post-slavery perspective.

Marie Stopes is a hero to feminists. A botanist in the last century, she fought for women's rights and championed free love.

Yet she accepted England's class system, the superiority of her culture over colonized peoples and the inferiority of Africans. Stopes was remarkable for having escaped some of the powerful cultural blinkers of her time.

It's almost impossible to transcend the dominant value and belief system of the time and culture in which one lives.

To a practising cannibal, the notion that eating human flesh is wrong or repulsive would be incomprehensible. What contradictions in our current attitudes and beliefs will puzzle future generations? One way to examine our values from a different perspective is by comparing ourselves with cultures quite unlike from ours.

Within our multicultural society, various ethnic and religious groups can provide that opportunity. I have recognized the constraints of my worldview in encounters with aboriginal people in Canada and elsewhere.

Helena Norberg-Hodge is an anthropologist whose work raises difficult questions about one of our most widely and deeply held notions of progress. She has spent more than 16 years living with and learning from people occupying a remote area of the Himalayas called Ladakh which some might romanticize as a Shangri-La. It is not.

In a high, arid country the size of England, 100,000 people eke out a subsistence living from agriculture. It's frozen for eight months of the year and all the crops must be grown in the brief summer.

Norberg-Hodge told me when she first arrived in Ladakh, her initial impressions were shaped by her own cultural expectations. She saw a Tibetan Buddhist society living a hard life of poverty. They could improve their lives with ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, she thought.

But as she learned the language and won acceptance by the local people, she realized that this was a rich, supportive society that was both resilient and sustainable.

The community was a powerful unit held together by co-operation and sharing everything from the distribution of limited water supplies to labor for planting, harvests and festivities. All generations lived and worked together and there was time for festivities and celebration. Norberg-Hodge's respect for Ladakhi society grew over the years.

But about eight years ago, "economic development" finally came to Ladakh. A road from Pakistan was punched through the mountains to Leh, the capital city, bringing products from the developed world and outsiders with very different values. Norberg-Hodge watched the delicate fabric of community support disintegrate as the city pulled young people (especially teenage boys) with the dazzle of motor bikes and excitement. Tourists came with wads of money to purchase trinkets while politicians and bureaucrats promised the benefits of being a part of the global economy.

"When I first arrived, I asked a boy to show me the poorest house in the village," Norberg-Hodge recalled. "After much thought, he replied that there weren't any poor people. Eight years later, I heard the same boy asking tourists for money because he was poor."

A village woman told Norberg-Hodge of a visit to her sister in the city: "She now has a telephone, a radio and a jeep. But she was rushing around so much, she didn't have time to talk to me."

Norberg-Hodge's book "Ancient Futures: Learning from Ladakh" (Sierra Club Books, San Francisco) is not a nostalgic paean to a golden past.

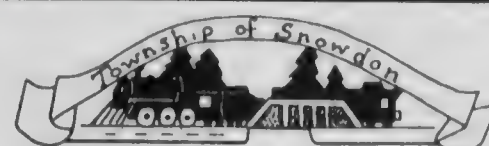

She forces us to confront questions we seem to have lost interest in since the Luddites unsuccessfully attempted to preserve their communities by attacking machines.

Ladakhis, like traditional people all over the planet, were practitioners of a way of life that worked, that provided both physical and spiritual sustenance. "People often say to me, 'if traditional ways were so much better, why have the people give it up?'" Norberg-Hodge recounted. "Well, they don't just give it up, they have had it forced onto them over generations of pressure."

We trumpet the word "progress" as if it is synonymous with material and economic growth.

National and international institutions like banks, the IMF and multinational corporations spread a model of "development" that guarantees the destruction of traditional ways of life.

Ladakh forces us to examine these seldom questioned "truths" and seek a redefinition of progress
